KEYMACRO is an innovative tool designed to perform keylogging on a keyboard or a computer. KEYMACRO is able to capture keyboard input on all Windows operating systems (such as Windows 2000, XP, Vista, and 7) and no separate components or drivers are needed to use it. KEYMACRO is not a simple tool. It can perform many advanced keylogging functions, which are not possible with other keyloggers. Some of these advanced functions are: * Text in Unicode mode. Unicode mode lets users add accents, katakana, ligatures, etc. to the typed characters. * Simulate mouse movements. KEYMACRO can simulate mouse movements using the keyboard. This is great for capturing complex keys like Numpad and function keys. * Real time configuration. The real time configuration feature lets users perform keylogging using any program that supports the keylogger API. Even users with no programming experience can create and configure a keylogger in a few easy steps. * Customizable hotkeys. KEYMACRO supports customizable hotkeys. Users can create a special key combination to perform functions like Alt+F1, Alt+Shift+Insert, etc. * Support for memory dump. After a program crashes, users can dump the memory contents into a file using a special hotkey. * Various keyboard layouts. The software can capture the keyboard layout of the Windows system. KeyMACRO also offers some unique features, such as: * Keylogging and clipboard monitoring. It is possible to set custom hotkeys to perform functions like keylogging and clipboard monitoring. It also enables users to capture any actions performed by a program. * Simulate mouse movements. It is possible to simulate mouse movements using the keyboard.
