I have looked at a couple of answers on the stackoverflow but they don't seem to be working for my situation. I am trying to run a script when an application is first opened. I had it set up as a listener however, it didn't seem to be working. I tried to remove the listener but then my app just didn't work. I get an Unhandled exception. Below is the script I am trying to run: using UnityEngine; using System.Collections; public class InitScript : MonoBehaviour { public static bool initialized; public static InitScript instance; void Start() { if(!initialized) { instance = this; initialized = true; } } } I have included the script in my Unity editor. Then I added the script in the solution explorer and added a script component to my GameManager Class: [ExecuteInEditMode] public class GameManager : MonoBehaviour { } Then 09e8f5149f
