Search the web without scrolling long pages for delicious recipes just by using the simple extension on your browser. Updated: Fixes when there are characters used in recipes not available in your locale. How to Get Narwhal For Chrome: Instructions As an extension, Narwhal can be easily added to your browser. The instructions will take you through how to add the extension, once added, as well as some technical information about the extension itself. Adding Narwhal To Google Chrome Go to chrome://extensions. Enable the Developer Mode by clicking on the wrench-like icon in the top right and checking the box labeled "Developer mode." Next, click the "Load unpacked extension..." button to the left and find the downloaded Narwhal extension. Click on the "Let's go" button to load the extension into your browser. You should now see a small Narwhal icon in the corner of your browser window, just to the right of the address bar. Adding Narwhal To Safari Go to your Safari browser menu, shown at the top of the screen. Click on the "Develop" icon at the very top right of the window, and check the box labeled "Developer". Then click the "Reload" button to refresh your browser. You should then see a small Narwhal icon in the corner of the address bar and the top right of the window. Click on the icon and you will be brought to a screen where you can download Narwhal. If you are having trouble finding the developer mode, you will need to first open your "Advanced" menu. It's directly under your "Develop" icon at the top right of your browser window. Technical Info The extension downloads Narwhal's code and runs it as a background process, which means that it will not take up much of your computer's memory or computer's processing speed. Even with the developer mode selected, Narwhal will ask permission to access your contacts in order to upload said contacts to Microsoft's address book. If you use a Google address book, Narwhal will ask your permission to share your book with Microsoft. Also, Narwhal checks websites for recipes and shows them in a dedicated column on the web page. Before using Narwhal, you will need to enable Javascript on your browser. Doing that is done through the "settings" menu. Narwhal should automatically detect your browser, which is usually a Safari or Chrome browser, but if it doesn
