Socially responsible Dr. Salim faces. He understands that, despite the fact that he knows that an accident has occurred, it is not possible to stop some work. A professional doctor and religious man fully supports Salim and his program. But the team of rehabilitation doctors does not want to continue their work. A rehabilitator who lost his patients in an accident doesn't want to work with his colleagues. He organizes a number of decisive actions at work, which everyone really likes. But Salim's colleagues are also interested in organizing the work until its quality returns to normal. This is the essence of the contradiction. Salim and his assistants distribute duties in accordance with their knowledge and skills. Salim has to set aside time for each of the 10 patients, which makes him obligated. Salim is also instructed to prepare a solution of the drug. However, he cannot do this, because at this time he must attend to the rest of the patients. In the laboratory, he must maintain cleanliness and order. During sick time, he must help around the house, and Salim's wife must not know about it. And in his apartment, he must make adjustments to the techniques and procedures that he performs daily. In addition, for his wife, he must provide treatment for colds and headaches. As Salim begins to realize that he can't handle it himself, his wife begins to feel betrayed. Constantly present in her husband's house, she disrupts the course of his working hours. Meanwhile, their son is born. However, the work does not leave time at all to solve problems in his personal life. Salim is also unable to take care of his son, who is breastfed. This irritates him and makes him irritable. Salim is unable to take care of his son's upbringing, as his concern for the child throws him off balance from time to time. One fine day, everyone agrees that Salim no longer has a job. It happened all of a sudden in the hospital. He understands this in such a way that it no longer makes sense for him to work in this position. Nothing will ever happen to him that could lead to disaster, and, moreover, it will never happen to his colleagues. Fortunately, he has a wife who is by his side and whom he also loves. On the last evening, when everyone left his house, he stayed with his wife and son, although he felt guilty. Regarding another medical institution, Salim said that he did not feel the need to work there. Ultimately, it was decided that
