GAMEPLAY : The gameplay of ShootRun is a classic, first-person shooter with dynamic fights, arena looking area, different and interesting enemies and hard situations. Dynamic fights and Fun - are main pillars of this game. You dont have to wait for movies or read very carefully NPS stories, just GO and KILL THEM ALL!!! Gameplay - as was mentioned before, this is first-person shooter with all characteristics. At this moment there are 19 stages of survival stages - where you have 5 types of weapon max and you kill all your enemies that you see to get on the next level. There are 18 types of enemies and different situations where you have to survive, and believe me, it wont be easy. Also 16 stages of jumping area, if you need something else, if you feel stuck, then you can always take any stage you want, but i recomend you to make step by step, because if you wont make lvl 4 for example, then lvl 5 will be harder for you. You have to understand logic and grow up as player, then next stage will be easier. About technical features - this is my first game on Unreal Engine 4, that was made 100% on blueprints. Project is not perfect, mostly because of my experience, however it is question of time and game will become better and better. I believe, that this method of making games has fantastic future and I hope, that this project will inspire other people to become developers. Lets make something special guys! ... Avoid The Theocracy Yorle Roberts, Elizabeth A The Book Of Yorle: Save The Farmland ... Avoid The Theocracy. Published by Arkley and Nash, London 1839 (OG 36; w 98 p.; CSP MSS, I, i, two leaves). The Book Of Yorle: Save The Farmland ... Avoid The Theocracy. Copy of the manifest title page, with note on greenish paper (originally part of a letter from the author to his employer, in response to the title), on a red label, on a plain sheet of paper with handwritten note in ink on both sides. Very lightly scuffed spine, head and tail. On the back (same owner) of a hand-lettered paper, apparently a letter (conveyed by the handwritten note on both sides and then in ink), part of which is cut off the page. Any attempt to retain the original formatting (i.e. 2 columns containing 17 lines of text, similar on both sides of the page) has led to much distortion of the text. This book has been proofread with attention to these problems. Various additions and amendments have been modernized and the original text is printed in bold italics. This is a paragraph taken from Page 1 of the book we are seeking: We must consider this portion of our country, sacred as it is to our own feelings, and even to the ideas of piety which are of the most real kind. This is a paragraph taken from Page 29 of the book we are seeking: Mr Ermynrude, when she was presented to me, told me that she had not yet finished that novel, to which the reader may refer, and which I consider, in point of form, one of the best pieces of creative genius that has been the author of a first-rate book. This is a paragraph taken from Page 38 of the book we are seeking: One of the best novelists of this age, I need not mention the name of the person whose praises I invoke. I would like to defend two opinions which I entertain. In the first place, because it is so pleasant to promote the production of the talents, and especially of those of ability, and to facilitate their advancement, which are those which we are talking about. But, it must be admitted, that in novels they are often poorly made; a kind of writing, always tiresome for all the parties
