For advanced Photoshop users, the feature set of Elements offers more editing controls and power than most desktop applications. Elements versions that support layer editing provide even more options. Elements versions are reasonably priced, and prices for versions without the layers editing feature range from $29.99 to $79.99. Adobe Photoshop Elements has a built-in retina display option. In addition, you can add a high-resolution version of your image. You can also save in two formats to ensure that an image looks good on a large computer monitor or on a smartphone. Elements provides a variety of file formats and file extensions that work for specific platforms. For instance, PNG files work for iOS and Android devices, while GIF files work for Chrome and Internet Explorer. The long-running contest, now in its 15th year, has a simple premise: you may be the best photographer on the Sunshine Coast, but sadly there's no law saying you have to live there. In March, the judges will visit your home, take a photo or two, and give you five marks for location, framing, lighting, atmosphere, composition and subject. The most important is the location, given it is the "most important factor in judging". "An award-winning and highly sought-after property should be thoughtfully situated in a way that contributes to the visual appeal of the photo," the judging criteria states. "Location is the most significant consideration in the judging process. "It is usually one of the most difficult elements to capture and may be the most important. "A well-chosen location can enhance an image, while an overlooked view can detract from an otherwise great composition." There are no maximum or minimum marks given for location. "Location is a subjective measurement so the location of the property should be interpreted based on how well the photo contributes to the visual appeal of the submission," the judges' report notes. "The judges will vary in their assessment of the location, but based on what we see in the photos, we will give marks for location." While the process takes place over the course of two weeks, the decisions are all made at the end of that time. "It is important to stress that the judges will not provide guidance on how to place and size objects in a photograph. "Each of the jurors will independently mark the submissions for their own reasons." Here's an example of a theme-based competition. Judges have been given three examples of 'place-themed' submissions: House view Local view Land They are also asked to provide an explanation of their decisions, which in the table below, were made by the five senior judges ('Alun' is shorthand for Alan Bishop). We encourage you to 'entre le sport' and see how many of the themes apply to your own home. Sorry for getting a bit technical here, but it's in the interest of transparency. Elevated levels of cardiolipin and decreased levels of phosphatidylinositol in a mouse model of lupus. In a recent paper, Seidel et al. reported that mice lacking ICAM-1 or C57BL/6 mice with reduced ICAM-1 expression have a noninfectious lupus disease and show increased lupus autoantibodies. This study was aimed to characterize lipid profiles in a mouse model of noninfectious lupus that is known to express an autoimmune syndrome similar to systemic lupus erythematosus. Male C57BL/6 mice were immunized with methylated BSA (MBSA) and anti-MBSA serum was obtained from the immunized mice. We found that protein levels of ICAM-1, a member of the intercellular adhesion molecules, were increased in the serum of mice immunized with MBSA. The level of ICAM-1 increased gradually over the first 6 weeks after immunization, peaking at week 8. In contrast, the protein level of ICAM-2, another member of intercellular adhesion molecules, was increased from the first week to the ninth week after immunization. We further showed that the levels of cardiolipin and phosphatidylinositol in the plasma membranes of splenic B cells were increased in the mice immunized with MBSA for 8 weeks. Our results indicate that elevated levels of cardiolipin and decreased levels of phosphatidylinositol in the plasma membrane of splenic B cells appear to play important roles in the pathogenesis of this disease.," said the 57-year-old activist, who has spent the bulk of his adult life pushing police reform. "She's been imprisoned for something she didn't do. She should never have to endure that again. She's a victim and not a criminal. We've had a miscarriage of justice here." Read more on Yahoo!
