ROAD OF THE PAST AND FUTURE... It's morn, during which Time was absorbed. Over countless years, humanity went through countless changes, and it ended up on the verge of extinction. The evil empire sought to wipe out the human species as a continuation of history. To protect the future of humanity and life on Earth, the remnants of the human race went on a journey, flying throughout the skies. The survivors were scattered across the Earth, and the beautiful blue sky was overtaken by the darkness of night.

LAND OF YEASTS AND DESTINY... It's morn, during which Time was absorbed. The majority of the human race perished, and the survivors escaped on the skies. They settled on the Lands Between, a vast area that contained many kinds of beings. Their homes, the ruins of cities, are scattered across the country. 'Green Dragon' plant affected by rare tropical disease to go on display The original Green Dragon (pictured) was dug up in 2008 and was found to be suffering from a 'rare tropical disease' A plant known as the Green Dragon has gone on display after being dug up in Jersey. The rare tropical disease called pseudostem bleeding caused the plant, which had originally been discovered in 2008, to bleed sap and die. It was dug up last October when bags of earth were found tied to the roots. The owner of the Orange Lane Nursery near St Aubin in Jersey, who found the rare plant, said it was unusual to find one in the wild. Paul Beaumont, of St Aubin, said: 'There's no way of telling how long it's been growing out there, but there's no doubt in my mind that it was thriving in the spring of 2008. 'I was out in the garden and spotted a very small plant that was obviously different from anything else that I'd seen. 'It had a reddish pink colour, so I tried to lift it out but it had become stuck in the soil and I realised that we had to cut it out of the ground to preserve it.' The plant was then brought back to his nursery, where Mr Beaumont and his team found more bags of soil tied to its roots. Mr Beaumont added: 'We made various searches and came across a cavity under some rocks. 'About 20 bags of soil were found there and they contained bags of soil from a completely different area to where the plant was growing. 'It seemed that it had been growing in there for a long time and it was definitely the original plant.' Mr Beaumont added that although the disease was unusual, it does not affect normal green plants. He said that he hoped the fact that the plant was on display will encourage people to save rare species. Green Dragon plant: The plant originally found in St Aubin, Jersey, was brought back to Paul Beaumont's nursery where it was found to be suffering from 'rare tropical disease' He added that many people were concerned that cutting a plant down was likely to cause the root to die. 'But the plant was re-rooted and sent to a nursery in the UK where it is being treated by a specialist,' he
