Republican presidential nominee Donald Trump on Tuesday casted doubt on the safety of election recount in heavily Democratic states, even as a judge blocked a similar request by Jill Stein in Wisconsin. Trump said the recount effort by the Green Party candidate is the equivalent of Hillary Clinton “bankrupting” the election because she didn’t win. “It’s very interesting that Jill Stein who is getting absolutely nothing from the recount,” Trump said of the Green Party candidate, who has raised a whopping $12 million in the latest fundraising period. “Look at the recount yesterday,” Trump said, referring to a Sunday court decision to block a recount that Clinton campaign and her allies had hoped would help put her over the top in Michigan. Trump made his comments at a rally in Wilmington, North Carolina. In Wisconsin, a federal judge on Monday approved the Green Party’s request for an election recount despite the Clinton campaign’s accusations of voter fraud, ordering Dane County — the state’s most populous — to “fully investigate” the claims. “We are appealing the ruling because it was made without the Green Party and Jill Stein being present,” Wisconsin Green Party spokeswoman Jill Stein said in a statement. The recount has cost taxpayers a whopping $3 million so far and is being done manually. 1cdb3666d

U.S. national team may be on the brink of elimination The United States may need to rely on a ragged and second-rate team to advance to the knockout round of the World Cup. After a disappointing 3-1 loss to Portugal and another loss to Ghana, the U.S. national team may have no shot at reaching the final of next month's World Cup in Brazil. The U.S. was outplayed in the first half of a scoreless game on Thursday in Recife, where a draw against Ghana secured the United States a spot in the round of 16. But the U.S. was relegated to playing for a fourth-place tie with Portugal on Saturday, which looks more likely than going to Rio de Janeiro for the final four days of the tournament. The USMNT is not expected to be seeded for the knockout stage, which means it will not be given home-field advantage in its next match in Curitiba, Brazil. But the Americans will play as the third-place team on June 22, having not played a game since June 1. "These are the games where you have an outside chance at the knockout," coach Jurgen Klinsmann said. "All of our opportunities are short. You take the games that you have to create a platform. I think our history has shown that if we can qualify for the semifinals, we have a great chance." The U.S. has no shortage of experience and savvy players. It's just that it lacks the star power that has worked wonders in the past, with Tim Howard, Clint Dempsey and the ball-playing Landon Donovan. The United States has never failed to reach the semifinals in 12 previous World Cups, but, as of now, that accomplishment is all but locked up. Here are the
