Four friends — Coast Guard Officer Alexis, Maya, Thaddeus and Esther — have lived together in Alexandria, Virginia, for most of their lives. But after narrowly escaping the ship of the spirits, the four survivors are shipwrecked on a mysterious island with a Mayan temple hidden deep in the jungle. A sudden storm forces their small boat to capsize in the middle of the ocean, causing a chain of events to unfold that will determine the course of their future. An extraordinary island awaits them with a vast temple containing artifacts of unspeakable power. A spirit of a volcano, called "The Spirit of the Volcano," is restless and hungry for vengeance. With nothing but a single wooden boat and the desire to save their lives, our four survivors must set out on an odyssey to return the artifacts to their rightful place in the ancient Mayan temple. When they attempt to locate the temple, the Spirit of the Volcano reacts with fury and retaliates by destroying the Mayan island. To make matters worse, sinister shadow creatures begin to appear. Can the players find the secret of the island's disaster and face the evil poacher's fate, or can they help the monster find the poacher's soul? Play through the entire game! Developer Boxshot: Boxshot / Screenshots Customer Reviews A Tale of Adventure by greeniise Suspense and adventure at it's finest. I loved the hidden object scenes and it was a great joy to play this adventure. It's hard to be let down by a game if it takes you on such a journey. I give this one 5 stars. Really awesome by Noel This game is very good. The descriptions and the puzzles are easy. If you like adventure games this is an excellent game for you. Love a HOPA game! by Fitz It's just like in HOPA normally only with adventure. I think it's a great combination. If you liked those games you'll like this also. There is a lot of HOPA but also a lot of Puzzles and hidden object. But you won't run into a lot of text. The descriptions are enough and this is a very difficult game. Love this one too! by Gordgower Love this one too! Amazing game by SloppyGirl A fantastic game and I can

The game is quite a little shooter but you don't need to be good at it to start playing. You are playing a little robot named Grome. You can play with yourself with the 2 player mode. Gameplay: You play as a sadistic prisoner who has been sent to bio-lab for a crime he did not commit. You will have to survive and escape in this bio-lab. The Bio-lab is in a military zone, so you won't find anything to eat or drink, but you are sure to find something with the potential to inflict harm on you. Gameplay: Biolab Wars is a top-down stealth based game with a little RPG thrown in. You play as an agent working for the Resistance as they try to stop a domineering corporation from blasting the planet apart and bringing in an alien invasion. Gameplay: A new twist on an old-fashioned shoot 'em up. A bomb and a laser blast it out of your way. When you start using the brain you can actually move on its path. You will shoot them from any angle with any shot you want! Gameplay: A still frame shooter with motion-blurred scrolling. You start the game on a mission to find and kill the maniac CEO who is planning to eliminate all life on the planet. The CEO has a top hat and a cape and he is carrying a large laser gun. His plans are a bit less than simple as he has kidnapped your friend in an attempt to gain information on your mission. Your friend is held hostage as you will be fighting over a duration of time. Gameplay: An Alien invasion is in progress. You must defend your home base from wave after wave of increasingly powerful Alien invaders. You will have to deploy a variety of terrain, items and weapons to defend yourself, while you continue to work on your base, researching weapons, and improving your defenses. Gameplay: The game takes place in a wide ranging alien invasion. You have to defend your home base. The story is unfolding as you play. You will be able to spend your ammo when necessary. In one minute you might have 5 rounds. The game is not linear, but you can play through it in one of eight different, yet related, routes. Gameplay: In this game you play as the leader of a military squad. Your mission is to liberate an old merchant town that was wiped out by the ruthless tribe of Vandals, and rid the land of

, Suresh Nair's project, Masterpiece India, puts the spotlight on a street artist who blends classical art of Indian miniatures with modern graffiti art. Nair was initially inspired by graffiti artist like Banksy but was not satisfied with the "idealistic" appeal they depicted. He said that he wanted to portray more realistic representation of "street graffiti" art. The whole concept of using "art" in everyday life became so popular that word graffiti had originated and became synonymous with the term "street art". Suresh Nair – Street art has gone beyond dreams! This is the first time in so many years that art is common to every-day activities and has become a common phenomenon. This fact gave birth to new generation of graffiti artists who pursue art and culture in every field they apply their talent. A perfect artform that actually has a depth to all art forms. No other art form can form a parallel to graffiti. But through the years the technique of graffiti changed with time. The artists used all sorts of substance to achieve a specific effect. The character design from Dumbo the feathery elephant. From left to right and top down – traditional Indian miniatures drawing of a tiger, the bat, a child riding a horse and a dog, vase and a modern Palestinian interpretation of the same design. Designs of Pakistani origin Importance of art The term 'urbane' even transformed into a brand. It is not the new words but the world that is changing which actually the word urobee, an Urdu word for urban is a product of the same change. Urban as a way of life has become a given worldwide and not just in urbanized areas. It now everywhere but the basics which are might not have changed but the standards are much higher. The share of 'real estate' in the total land mass has come down to 43%. While the share of real estate which a living person can afford with monthly income has come up to 8%. The generation above the 18-35 years appears to be far more creative than the one which grew up at the time of the marvels of Grace Kelly. They a time for multi-tasking. Their way of life is a continuation of the urban lifestyle. 'What are we living for?' Is this a culture that survived the test of time? No, that is an echo from another

Virus Scanner is a game about virus warfare. There are some viruses out there that want to eradicate all sentient life from the universe. Don't let them succeed! With help from friends, you can fight for the future of mankind. You need to control the virus-killer paddle as it fights through fields of viruses, and you can interact with them to change their properties and even kill them. You might even meet a few AI viruses who can perform some weird tricks. If you take too long, viruses will start destroying everything in their path. Gather the medicine balls before they hit, and use the paddle to shoot them out. And with that, enjoy the ride of your life. Control the virus-killer paddle with the ball.
