FIFA's new motion capture engine uses the data collected to accurately recreate real-world player movements and poses, while capturing the unpredictable and aggressive nature of modern football. Due to the importance of this technology, FIFA has worked closely with the leading companies in this field, including Optitrack, to ensure an unprecedented level of accuracy and precision is maintained. The combination of this accurate capture technology and an arsenal of unique new attributes has set new standards for the natural and responsive feel of gameplay. AI has also been vastly improved to better match the unpredictable nature of modern football and to make attacks and offensives as close to the real game as possible. This includes new off the ball movements, aerial duels, attacking runs, off the ball interceptions and, for the first time, positioning in offsides. These improvements have been made through a combination of work in new physics modelling and modifications to player intelligence. New Superstar Experience Moving to the pitch is now more exciting with a new, more direct and fluid action sequence that is introduced early in Career Mode. The new Superstar experience will become available after the 23rd time a player is awarded the badge, giving you the chance to become a real superstar - all with your very own stadium. This new feature will be available in both Story and Career modes. The new Superstar experience will give players the chance to showcase their skills and personality in their very own unique and interactive stadium, with multiple on-pitch customisations that reflect their position in the squad. Players will be able to buy and sell customised kits, celebrate penalties with thousands of fans in the crowd and they will also be able to place countless banners, banners and portraits around the stadium to make a lasting impression on the crowd. Career Mode The new Arsenal Academy has been expanded and provides new tools and coaching techniques to enhance player and coach development. The Academy provides the opportunity for the player to demonstrate their improvement from training drills to real matches. Players will be able to attend training sessions and will be able to get a deeper look into the education of the world's most elite footballers. Players will also be able to access multiple training environments and facilities, which provide new training approaches and training drills. As players rise through the youth teams, they will have the chance to play in new tournaments with new rewards that provide more player development. The players will also be able to compete
