Q: How can i pass credentials with replex? I'm running the following code: Replex However, when I do this it gives me an error. XMLHttpRequest cannot load Response to preflight request doesn't pass access control check: No 'Access-Control-Allow-Origin' header is present on the requested resource. I've been looking at this for a while and I couldn't find a way to do it. I would like the credentials to come from an Excel sheet since it's easier to automate. Any help is very appreciated. A: The URL does not need authorization to access. I suspect you have a server setup to accept CORS that needs to be configured for such requests. It is either an Active Server Solution, some cloud or you are getting the URL to a (token) link and you need to have the authorization. If you have a token available, you can use withCredentials to get the response object from the call and it is parsed correctly, but this can sometimes fail with such kind of URLs. If you have a token, it is probably better to just use it. If you are currently working with this URL and don't have the credentials to the server, I am pretty sure that you will need to rewrite the URL from the error, but it seems that the the main issue is that the server/application cannot authorize the request. Have a look at this article and see if this is able to help with you CORS problem. Q: Can a shadow land unit move through terrain? Can a shadow land unit move through terrain? For example: If the unit is moved from a square with elevation -9 to a square with elevation -10, and the unit moves onto the elevated square, does the elevated square count as being "on a hill"? A: Can a shadow land unit move through terrain? Yes. A shadow unit doesn't have a terrain type, and a shadow unit can't use terrain for cover if it's not in the shadow of something that has terrain. If the unit is moved from a square with elevation -

We have lots of experience with education having been able to help them with college and IEP information as well as assist them to develop an IEP and go through their process. With our experience, we get to know your student and his/her needs. As a result we can give the right information and suggestions that may lead to more success. We assist in finding the right school for your child as well as find them the right classroom in order to assist your child with the learning process. We have assisted with enrolling in, and navigating the educational process; finding financial aid information including FAFSA, aid, and debt management options; meeting with financial aid representatives; and coordinating services for independent living. We have also helped navigate IEP's, assist with testing, and become educated on DPH&RS (Department of Public Health & Regulatory Services). When we attend a parent meeting we take active part in it. We listen, understand, and really get to know your student, your family, and what your goals and needs are. As a result we can better provide service for your student. Professional communication is everything. We focus on building a great relationship with the school district, educators, and parents. We recognize that it is our job to keep everyone informed, working hard to keep each other informed, and to ensure the success of the student. We sincerely do try to give back to our community. Our current passion has been in getting children prepared for kindergarten. We have been very successful in meeting the challenges for those who are English Language Learners. We also help children in creating positive transition from home to school. We hold various home based parent events, have mentored children on learning to read, and have offered phone interviews and guidance for potential jobs. while, which makes it an essential supplement for marathon training.
