A: Hello and welcome to Super User, Most likely you have a third party drive, a USB, with a file system that you don't know how to handle. You can not use a regular Windows program to recover the files. You need to use a more advanced program. Try Stellar Phoenix and see if it can help you out. This morning, Showtime announced that Bill Maher has been tapped to host its next installment of the Emmy-winning documentary series "Cathartic" which focuses on the upper echelon of the LGBT community. Last year, the show was hailed as the most awarded show in the history of the network. In addition to his show, "Real Time with Bill Maher," Maher will also work on The Writers Guild of America's developing TV drama series called "Random Acts of Flyness," which is set to air on Amazon. The series follows a man and the people that surround him as he begins to live out the rest of his life, focusing on the fleeting nature of what he calls "the thing." There will also be another season of HBO's "Trial & Error" later this summer. All three programs are executive produced by writer/producer Lisa Joy. The latter has won two Emmys for her work on "Westworld." Maher said, in a statement: "'Trial & Error' has always been a moving experience for me. It's not only about giving patients the medications they need, but how you learn and grow from working with people. I'm excited to return to the show in a new capacity to make a difference in the lives of more people struggling with mental illness."Q: What is the proper way to get DbContext for EF 6.1.3 I am trying to instantiate my own DbContext (IEnumerable) but I am getting the following error Use of unassigned local variable '_context' I am not using the DbContextCreator. This DbContext is used by NuGet package (also EF 6.1.3) to create various EDMX's. There is a blog post showing how to use the NuGet package but it doesn't actually show how to instantiate your own DbContext. Here is my code. using (var _
