Give Ume Outliner a try to see what it's really capable of! Ume Outliner Preview Edition 1.3.0.0 is a bug fix release for Version 1.3.0.0 of Ume Outliner (From SVN repository) This release fixes a few nasty bugs found in the source code. Read below for more information! * Bug fix: The behavior of the moving cursor did not work in the 5.0 version of the source code. This behavior has been added back to the application and now does work correctly. * Bug fix: When clicking on a class, the tooltip sometimes covered the second line. This was fixed in the Version 1.3.0.0 code and it no longer happens. * Bug fix: When using a left click to move the cursor to a highlighted cell, the cursor and highlight could get stuck. In Version 1.3.0.0 it should no longer happen. * Minor bug fix: Fixed a typo in the print routine. * Minor bug fix: Fixed a bug where the memory usage was not reported properly. * Minor bug fix: The text was incorrectly centered in the double click to spell fix. * Minor bug fix: The tooltip for the right click menu was off by 1 line. * Minor bug fix: If undo was used, the previously used files were not always displayed in the file history. This has been fixed. * Minor bug fix: Fixed a bug that could cause a crash when refreshing the tree. * Minor bug fix: Fixed a bug that would cause a warning when the mouse was not on the application windows. * Minor bug fix: The code was not tested on a PE installation of IE5. In Version 1.3.0.0 all these bugs are fixed and it no longer needs to be tested on IE5. * Minor bug fix: Changed the logic in the first moving row cell. * Minor bug fix: The right click menu code was not checked for the case when the right click menu was off by one line. * Minor bug fix: Fixed a problem where a counter to display the number of undo steps was not b7e8fdf5c8

Unlike conventional outliners, you only have to keep track of one list. Give Ume Outliner a try to see what it's really capable of! Who Am I My name is Taro Aoki and I'm a programmer. I've been a developer on web sites ranging from small projects for individual clients, to big corporate sites. I am also an author, authoring several books on web development and Flash. I like telling about interesting facts and interesting technology. Most of this site is based on real life experiences. On the mechanism of dynamic pulse potentiation in the spinal cord. The underlying mechanism for dynamic pulse potentiation (DPP), the increase in monosynaptic, low-threshold mechanical response (LTM) following high-frequency stimuli, has been examined in rabbit spinal cord. At C4-C5 dorsal roots, 20 high-frequency stimuli (30 Hz, 0.2 ms) delivered at 0.05 Hz increased LTM by 25%. At the same site, repeated, transient depolarizations, evoked by the same stimuli, increased LTM by 20%. The findings indicate that DPP is mediated by increased sodium influx into the receptor-bearing nerve terminals. Eugene J. McGuire Eugene J. McGuire (April 4, 1925 – December 17, 2009) was an American politician. Born in Buffalo, New York, McGuire graduated from Seneca Falls Central School. He served in the United States Army during World War II. In 1959, McGuire moved to California and was a business agent for the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. He served in the California State Assembly in 1961 and 1962. From 1962 to 1964, McGuire was the Deputy Commissioner of the Bureau of Home Furnishings. In 1965, McGuire was elected to the California State Senate and served in the California State Assembly in 1967 and 1968. He served as the Chief Clerk of the California State Assembly in 1969 and in 1975. In 1969 and 1970, McGuire served on the California Fair Political Practices Commission. He then retired in 1983. From 1985 to 1989, McGuire served as a hearing officer for the California Commission on Judicial Performance. He died at his home in Felton, California. Notes
