DownloadWunder is an easy to use download manager. It allows you to organize your downloads and perform batch operations. DownloadWunder is a useful download manager application that enables you to organize your downloads and perform batch operations. At first launch, the application displays the configuration window, which enables you to set the language and configure it to actively monitor the clipboard. This can also be done at a later time in the 'Settings' area. Once you selected the desired options, the main window is shown, enabling you to access the queue and download a new file. The interface is simple and provides one-click access to all the options. Its intuitive look makes it suitable for all types of users. You are free to customize the appearance of the main GUI to match your desktop by changing the color theme. You start by entering the desired URL in the designated form and set the output location where the files will be saved. The catch is that you must enter the base URL, excluding the file name. The file is first added to the queue and you can easily initiate the download process. DownloadWunder.net can also generate a list of URLs in HTML or text format and save it in a custom location on your hard disk. Furthermore, it integrates a tool to search for links in a webpage or in a local folder, enabling you to filter the search by excluding certain file types. The download status is displayed within the main window, where you can view the number of downloaded files, elapsed time and the download speed. You can easily select the user agent for the files you want to grab.
