COMMENTS complain that the police have no obligation to investigate incidents of pickpocketing and, further, that pickpockets have no moral obligation to refrain from pickpocketing, but the police has no standing to complain of such conduct, despite its potential to disrupt what they consider a lawful activity of the pickpockets, thus undermining the people's constitutional right to free movement. following the argument of the pickpockets from the city, held that the police was authorized to arrest the group of pickpockets in the context of an order to pay a fine after they had been found guilty of traffic violations in violation of the law.
