"Antiflux 2 is the sequel to Antiflux, the best-selling deep, dark, and ever expanding RPG!... Expanding, Dark, & Ever-Changing Worlds Intense storytelling, with mature themes and graphic violence, combined with innovative gameplay make "Antiflux 2" as much fun to play as it is to look at! With a mix of 4th ed, 3rd ed, and 2nd ed rules, there are over 80 new classes, 50 new spells, 100 new weapon effects, more than a dozen new races, and much more. Antiflux 2's crisp, clean, and versatile interface makes it easy to browse and play. Although the game is written in the 3rd edition rules, it makes heavy use of 3.5's "Extended Actions," allowing players and GMs to make quick and smooth changes to game flow. GMs can also preview maps and menus without downloading, so they can always be sure of what the players are seeing." ** IMPORTANT ** Antiflux 2 is completely compatible with 'Conan' rulebooks. If you use those books, you might have noticed that not all of Antiflux's classes are present in the original rulebook. Conan actually took these classes and made them work with Conan rules. In Antiflux, any class that is not in the original rulebook can simply be added as a new class using the Computer Class Generator in the Extras menu. In order to play Antiflux 2 under the Conan rulebooks, you will need to copy the character sheets from Antiflux into the Conan character sheet. You do this in the Extras menu. It will also copy the character sheet's chart, which contains all of the rules for playing the character. Simply choose the Antiflux character sheet and 'Edit with New...' and load it into the Conan character sheet. To add classes to the Antiflux character sheet, simply drag and drop the new class onto the character sheet. To remove a class, simply delete it and copy the renamed list back to its original location. If a class is already on the list, it will be renamed and moved down the list. Classes must be unique, and there can only be one of each class. Classes can be deleted in place from the list, but if you wish to remove a class, delete it instead. For use with 'GURPS New System' and 'Arcanum' rulebooks, Antiflux 2 has

When I was a kid my neighbors across the street had their summer place in the back, in the shade, just away from the ocean. I remember running there as a child and climbing to the edge and looking out to see the sun moving across the sky and then down to the vastness of the sandy ocean with its waves and froth. You could disappear in those places, and you could feel those places, you know like when you go somewhere for the first time, or you lose yourself to one of the classic moments in life. It's possible those memories came from that house I visited as a kid. It felt like a vacation and you could see the sun set a bit and get a good breeze going in the shallow water. Maybe it was the memories. It doesn't matter really. What's important is that place, the place where the sun touches the waves and the ground is sand, it doesn't matter where it is, just as long as you can get lost in that moment. And so, for a moment when I was very young, I felt like I was lost, at the edge of the world, at the edge of man and the legend of man. You could feel the distance, the vastness. You could feel the newness. And I wanted to be that kid again. That place, that beach, that afternoon, that moment. I was only able to find that place a few times, in my life, but those were some of the best times. Recently my mother died, and that was the end of that story for me. I looked at my home, and I looked at all the other homes around me and I felt sadness. I thought I had been home, yet I had never been there. And one day, I finally was home. When my mother died, I got a phone call from her ex-husband. He told me she died after she moved into a nursing home, and he wants me to go over there and get things for her. So I have to think of the last wishes of my mother, the woman who raised me, to take over her things, to get some video games, and take them home to her room. I rushed over and got the games and then I rushed home. I quickly put my mother's boxes in the corner of the living room, in her old bedroom, in the small box I remembered from my childhood and I gathered a few things that I remembered she

After turning the computer on yesterday morning for the first time since my Blu-ray player died the previous week, all I got when I powered my PC up was a bunch of fans running, but nothing else. I've tried connecting to the USB Blu-ray player via the port the TV uses (HDMI or ARC) with the audio cable to another port using Windows Media Center 7 and nothing showed up in the main Media Center screen so I think the unit is dead. I've spent the entire day trying to find/download the USB drivers to the PC to no avail. I've used several different sites, different versions of the drivers (12.11.18 10.10 for example), and even looked on the MS Web Site in search of them, but to no avail. When I tried plugging in my USB Direxion external USB DVD player a few weeks ago I did not have to download/use drivers for it. Does anyone know where I can find/download the drivers so I can use my Blu-ray player to play films/clips/movies?Q: Add Class to all link in div once loaded, without reloading.
