By the time the search results are being fed to the container (select2), the container will be updated. What happens: search and search results are sent to container and before the container is updated with search results the container itself is being updated with search results. Here is my code:

Lord Hex of the Lich Lord is an expansion for The Elder Scrolls III: Morrowind, a 1994 role-playing video game. The expansion begins at the same time as Daggerfall and is set in the cities and towns of Snowdonia in the province of Valenwood. Like all Elder Scrolls expansions, the game features new content and new jobs, such as a new character class. The game also features many new items and changes to some aspects of the game such as armor types. The expansion was not released on the PC version of Morrowind, but a leaked client with the expansion was released in 2003, and was later released for the PC on the Morrowind Game Era on November 1, 2007. Plot Original version In The Elder Scrolls III: Morrowind the player was tasked with the defense of a town besieged by a wave of rats. In this town they would find a scroll revealing the whereabouts of the Three-Tongued God, who was said to be their only hope. The scroll led to a town in the countryside called Bruma, which is beset by darkness and decided to put their trust in the scroll's brilliance. They succeeded; their King Amiano looked to the other gods and holy allies for aid, and made a bargain with the Three-Tongued God to take up residence in his scribe Ashfael. However, the god were not so easy to control, and had instead decided that Bruma were unworthy. They attempted to violate Bruma's unborn child. While the King's Mage discovered this, and fled to his father Quelo'eth and the Night Mother to stop the violation, the plan was carried out and the child was born. This child was named Gavriel, and protected the town, since he had in his hand the Scribe's Amulet of Life, which they called the Hex of the Lich Lord. With this, the three-tongued god could restore life to all creatures, and form permanent bonds with mortal men. Some years later, Gavriel became weary of being a solitary god, and left to create a new religion with the support of the other gods. He was replaced by the reborn King Amiano, his faithful friend Hoare at his side, who took the name "Lich Lord". Their first task was to get the best minds of the Divines and Priests of Bruma to their side of the Veil. They succeeded, and created a foundation of
